

“Climate-Policy Induced Technology Exports – Potential and Risk”

Final Conference, TETRIS Project

Thursday, November 30, 2006

Venue: University Foundation, Room A · Rue d’Egmont 11, 1000 Bruxelles

Draft program

- 09:00 Registration of participants
- 09:30 Opening remarks
Ger Klaassen, European Commission
- 09:35 Introduction to the TETRIS project
Christoph Böhringer, Ulf Moslener, Centre for European Economic Research
- 09:45 One global carbon market? Potential and prospects for linking domestic emissions trading schemes
Urs Springer, Ecoplan
Dirk Forrister, Natsource
- 10:05 Does the CDM foster technology transfer?
Dirk Forrister, Natsource
Heleen de Coninck, Energy Research Center of the Netherlands
- 10:25 How large and costly is the permit supply from CDM and JI?
Nico van der Linden, Energy Research Center of the Netherlands
Jake Schmidt, Center for Clean Air Policy
- 10:45 Open discussion
TETRIS project team and Dolf Gielen, International Energy Agency
- 11:15 Coffee break
- 11:45 Measuring the risks of investing in climate change mitigation
Robert Oleschak, Ecoplan
- 12:05 Impacts of investment risk on CDM, JI and technology transfer
Christoph Böhringer, Centre for European Economic Research
- 12:25 Conclusions and policy recommendations
Urs Springer, Ecoplan
- 12:40 Questions and general discussion
Moderator: Christoph Böhringer
- 13:00 Lunch

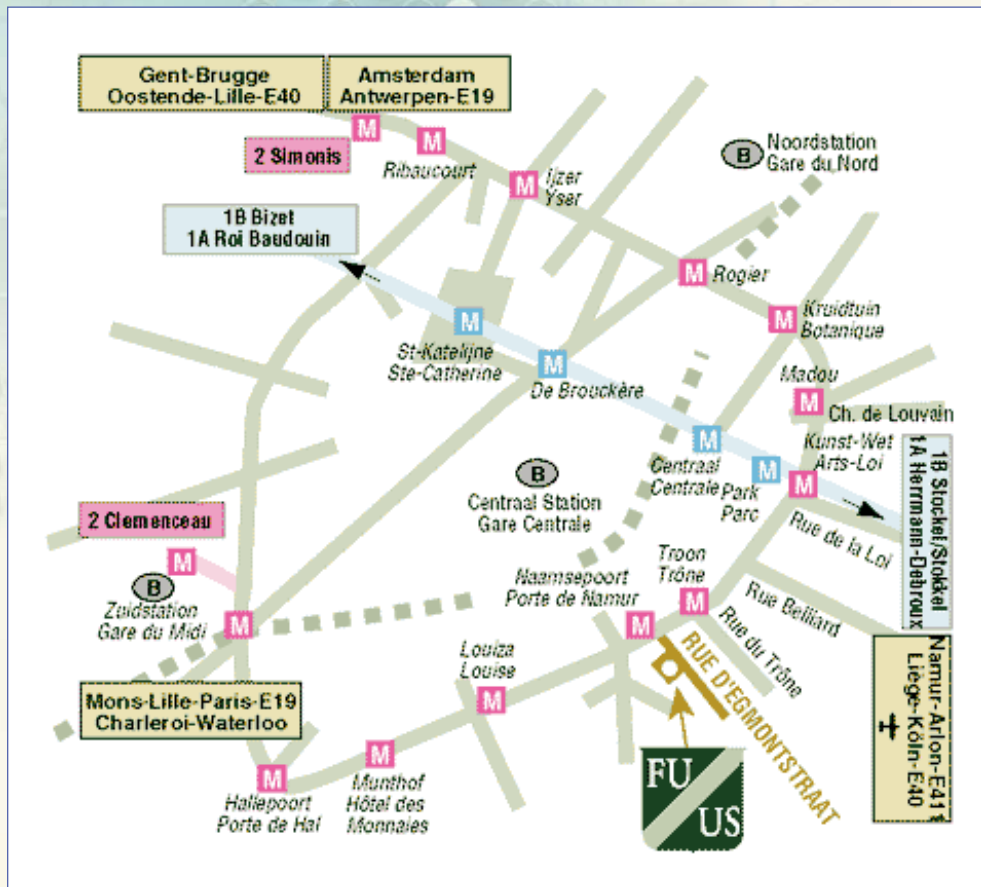

Conference registration:

Kornelia Peter, peter@zew.de, Please register until November 20.

TETRIS contact: Ulf Moslener, moslener@zew.de

TETRIS (Technology Transfer and Investment Risk in International Emissions Trading) is a policy-oriented project of the 6th EU Framework Programme that aims to explore the economic and industrial impacts and prospects of technology transfer associated with the implementation of the Kyoto flexible mechanisms, such as the Clean Development Mechanism and Joint Implementation. TETRIS Website: <http://www.zew.de/en/kooperationen/UMW/TETRIS/>

Venue: University Foundation, Room A
Rue d'Egmont 11, 1000 Bruxelles

ZEW

Zentrum für Europäische
Wirtschaftsforschung GmbH
Centre for European Economic Research

ECOPLAN Economic Research and Policy Consultancy

